CONSULTATION QUESTIONS

Section 1 Q1) Do you think the Home Report is meeting its original objectives? Yes X No Q1a) If yes, please explain why It assists buyers when purchasing homes giving them all necessary details for the property. Also sellers can identify amendments needed for their property and get a clear indication of value. Q1b) If no, please explain why Comments Q2) Are the original Home Report objectives still appropriate? Yes X No Q2a) If yes, please explain why I believe the home report plays a big part when a buyer is purchasing a property, apart from viewing the property the home report can have some influence on their decision as it will give any work needed to be carried out etc. Q2b) If no, please explain why Comments Q3) Should the Home Report play a more central role in promoting energy efficiency and property condition improvements among home owners? Yes X No Q3a) If yes, please explain why The EPC can be used as a guide to make the home more energy efficient. Also steps should be taken to follow the advice given in the home report in regards to amendments needed for the property – this will create higher value. Q3b) If no, please explain why Comments Q4) Should a national register of Home Reports be established? Yes X No

Q4a) If yes, please explain why including who should have responsibility for development and maintenance

It would be an efficient way to keep track of all home reports carried out – easy access as they are all in one place. Also would be good for carrying out research i.e. stats. A Government run "Hub" could be responsible for this as opposed to private companies which would cut out the chance of competition in this sector.

Q4b) If no, please explain why

Q5) Do you think the upfront cost of Home Reports is preventing potential sellers from putting their property onto the market? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q5a) If yes, please provide details. Comments
Q6) Are you aware of any schemes available (e.g. deferred payment) to help potential sellers to pay for home reports? Yes X No
Q6a) If yes, please provide details Onesurvey Ltd and many surveying companies have payment plans where clients can pay off their home report over a certain period of time.
Q7) Are there any issues with the majority of Home Reports being commissioned through selling agents? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q7a) If yes, please explain why Comments
Q7b) If no, please explain why This is an efficient way of commissioning home reports as the seller can deal with all aspects of selling their property in the one place e.g. home report, marketing fees, advertising etc.
Q8) Should other organisations be allowed to carry out the Single Survey (including valuation) and/or the Energy Report? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q8a) If yes, what other organisations and why Comments
Q8b) If no, please explain why This would create confusion for first time sellers, more competition and it is unnecessary while there are so many different surveying firms.
Q9) In your experience is the requirement for a home report before marketing a property leading to delays in properties coming onto the market? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q9a) If yes, please outline the implications of this. Comments

Q10) Are home reports a useful marketing tool for sellers? Yes X No
Q10a) If yes, please explain why Although home reports aren't necessarily commissioned for marketing, a home report provides a detailed description of properties, it indicates any work that needs carried out and it gives a clear statement of value which is exactly what a buyer needs when looking for a property. Q10b) If no, please explain why Q11) Is the 12 week deadline for marketing a property after completion of a home report appropriate and reasonable? Yes X No Q11a) If yes, please explain why This will stop people from having home reports carried out, waiting months and then marketing. Within the months between having the home report completed and marketing a lot of changes could occur to the property and the property industry i.e. house prices changing damage to the property or improvements.

Q11b) If no, please explain why
Comments
Q12) Is the 28 day provision for removing a property from the market without requiring a new home report appropriate and reasonable? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q12a) If yes, please explain why In some ways yes as it stops people from using old home reports which may include incorrect information, however 28 days is such a short period of time, 3-4 months would be more appropriate this gives people time to have work carried out/decide on marketing their property etc.
Q12b) If no, please explain why
Q13) Are there any issues with potential buyers accessing home reports? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q13a) If yes, please provide an overview and outline the implications of this Comments

Q14) Is this the most appropriate way to enforce home report legislation? Yes X No	i
Q14a) If no, please explain why and how this could be improved Comments
Q15) What are your views on mortgage lenders' acceptance of home repovaluations?	ort
I think it is unfair for lenders to ask sellers to have their home report updated after only 3 months of being on the market when they have a purchaser. Most people pay £300+ for a home report and to incur further costs after such a short time is unreasonable. However I do believe that after a certain period of time e.g. 6months+ the home report should be renewed if there is a purchaser mainly if there has been changes made to the property or if the value will have changed for any reason.
Q16) Are the re-dress options available to buyers reasonable and appropries X No	riate?
Q16a) If no, please explain why and how these could be improved Comments
Q17) Do these exceptions need to be amended? Yes No X
Q17a) If yes, please explain what amendments are required and why Comments

Q18) Does the single survey element of the home report provide an appropriate and useful level of information? Yes X No Q18a) If no, please explain why and what information should be removed and/or added Q19) Should the repairs categories in the single survey be amended to methem consistent with the categories used in the Scottish House Condition Survey? Yes \(\subseteq \text{No X} \)
Q19a) If yes, please explain why Comments
Q19b) If no, please explain why I think there is enough information included in the single survey regarding repairs without adding the SHCS.
Q20) Is the valuation element of the single survey a useful element of the report? Yes X No	home
Q20a) If yes, please explain why Comments
Q20b) If no, please explain why One of the first things a seller will look for once their home report is complete is the value. This gives them, the agent and the buyer a clear indication of how much the property is worth taking everything in the report into consideration.
Q21) Is the information provided in the energy report appropriate and use Yes X No $\ \square$	aful?

Q22) Is the information provided in the property questionnaire appropriat useful? Yes X No $\ \square$	e and Q22a) If yes, please explain why Yes. Mainly because most of the points covered in the Property Questionnaire are not covered in any part of the report provided by the Surveyor. The majority of the questions in the property questionnaire would be useful to know when buying a property e.g. council tax band, parking arrangements etc.
Q22b) If no, please explain why
Comments
Q23) Should an additional question on land maintenance fees be added to the Property Questionnaire? Yes No X
Q23a) If yes, please explain why Comments
Q23b) If no, please explain why Information about land maintenance should be found in the single survey if need be. It could also be answered in the "factoring" question in the property questionnaire as this section explains further or shared costs whilst you own the property.
