

From: [REDACTED]
To: 2002 Act Review
Date: 26 March 2016 01:03:48

Hunters in Scotland are blatant about the fact that the exemptions in the PWMA are allowing them to carry on hunting. The Buccleuch Hunt website states that “all Scottish packs use the exemption allowing foxes to be flushed to guns.”

No wonder the Scottish Countryside Alliance stated on the ten year anniversary of the PMWA coming into force:

‘you could be forgiven for thinking little has changed during the course of time’

Such arrogance. Hunters have been having the last laugh for years. It is time something was done by law-makers to ensure that no more exemptions can be exploited, and no more wildlife is ripped apart by hounds just so that bloodthirsty hunters can get sociopathic kicks.

It is shocking that we are even having this discussion in 21st Century Britain. Thankfully though, the majority of the public in the UK find hunting with hounds abhorrent. For most of us, seeing an animal die would be upsetting, not part of a fun day out. Hunters can try and dress up their actions any way they want. “Wildlife management” and “pest-control” are often cited as reasons for their hunts. But let’s be clear here. These people enjoy the kill.

Please end this.
Joan Walker

This email was scanned by the Government Secure Intranet anti-virus service supplied by Vodafone in partnership with Symantec. (CCTM Certificate Number 2009/09/0052.) In case of problems, please call your organisations IT Helpdesk. Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.

This email has been received from an external party and has been swept for the presence of computer viruses.

Wall Street Daily

Peter Schiff: China Just Armed its Financial Missile
<http://thirdpartyoffers.netzero.net/TGL3232/56f5dfede4e0e5fec1a25st01vuc>