

From: Susan Holmes
To: 2002 Act Review
Subject: Protection of Wild Mammals (Scotland) Act 2002.
Date: 27 March 2016 16:16:52

To whom it may concern:

The current legislation for the protection of wild animals is not working and there are too many loopholes. We need to strengthen the laws and end the use of dogs in hunting wild animals. The flushing of wild animals from underground, using a dog, should be banned. Both animals are injured and suffer during this practice and there is a danger the dog will get trapped underground.

All animals feel pain and suffer and therefore, in a civilised world, we should end such barbaric forms of "wildlife" control and move into the 21st Century .

<http://www.legislation.gov.uk/asp/2002/6/section/2>

Yours sincerely,

Susan Holmes

This email was scanned by the Government Secure Intranet anti-virus service supplied by Vodafone in partnership with Symantec. (CCTM Certificate Number 2009/09/0052.) In case of problems, please call your organisations IT Helpdesk. Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.

This email has been received from an external party and has been swept for the presence of computer viruses.
