To The Rt. Hon. Lord Bonomy

I wish to support the views of the Veterinary Association for Wildlife Management and their submission to the review. This clearly states the opinions of a range of highly qualified individuals with a huge knowledge of animal welfare and the countryside. This submission outlines, more eloquently than I could ever hope to achieve, the reasons why attempting to flush with two hounds would be utterly useless. Along with many other valid points.

Although the review may not be concerned with the knock on effects of a change in the law, I feel it is surely worth mentioning the possible negative impact this could have on hound packs and the numerous professions associated with, in an already fragile rural economy.
