I am a supporter of the Dumfries and Stewartry Foxhounds established in 2006 to control the fox population at the invitation of local farmers. I would like to stress that the present system of using a pack of hounds to flush foxes from woods and hill land to guns works well in our rough and wooded country. The Dumfries and Stewartry hunt always operates within the law and we have the support of the local police force.

I would say that the current law provides the necessary level of protection for wild mammals whilst allowing for the effective and humane control of mammals, such as foxes, where necessary.
