

From: [REDACTED]
To: 2002 Act Review
Subject: Evidence Submission to Lord Bonomy
Date: 30 March 2016 11:01:39

Review of the Protection of Wild Mammals (Scotland) Act 2002

Evidence Submission by Mr John Bell-Irving, [REDACTED] [REDACTED].

- I have been involved with the hunting of foxes for many years. The local pack has hunted for a decade and within the rules of the 2002 Act. They have used dogs to flush foxes to guns and seems to me that the law has been working and the law does not need changing.
- The Act is being successfully enforced.
- A large number of dogs, who are well disciplined and organised, are needed to find the foxes in the thick cover, in order to flush them out into the open.

There is no need to change the 2002 Act.

Yours etc.,

John Bell-Irving.

This email was scanned by the Government Secure Intranet anti-virus service supplied by Vodafone in partnership with Symantec. (CCTM Certificate Number 2009/09/0052.) In case of problems, please call your organisations IT Helpdesk. Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.

This email has been received from an external party and has been swept for the presence of computer viruses.
