

From: [REDACTED]
To: 2002 Act Review
Subject: Review of the Protection of Wild Mammals
Date: 31 March 2016 00:37:32

Dear Sirs,

I would like the review to consider the existing regulations regarding fox hunting in Scotland. There seems to be a number of loopholes whereby hunters can inflict a brutal death for foxes as they are being attacked by a pack of dogs and not flushed out to be shot. No animal should face such cruelty, we live in a modern day society and this behaviour belongs in the 18th century.

Can you please tighten the existing legislation as the current laws in Scotland are being exploited. Please look at the Hunting Act 2004 England and Wales which has stricter regulations.

Regards
Rachel Watt

[REDACTED]

This email was scanned by the Government Secure Intranet anti-virus service supplied by Vodafone in partnership with Symantec. (CCTM Certificate Number 2009/09/0052.) In case of problems, please call your organisations IT Helpdesk. Communications via the GSi may be automatically logged, monitored and/or recorded for legal purposes.

This email has been received from an external party and has been swept for the presence of computer viruses.
