A Culture Plan for Scotland

A Consultation

The Scottish Government wants to hear what you think about the ideas set out in A Culture Plan for Scotland.

Culture is things like music, art, craft, dance, theatre and things that we value like the buildings and stories from history. Culture is part of our everyday lives.

There are some questions about this document. You can answer as many as you like.

The Scottish Government wants to know what is important to you about culture.

The Scottish Government has a list of things it wants to achieve for Scotland.

This is called the National Performance Framework.

The Scottish Government has added a new goal to this list about culture.

"We are creative and our vibrant and diverse cultures are expressed and enjoyed widely."

This shows that the Government thinks culture is important for everyone.

Your answers to these questions will help the Government decide what work needs to be done to achieve this goal.

Your answers will also help them write the final Plan for culture.

You must fill out this form and send it back to the Scottish Government with your answers to the Consultation questions.

Section 1. About this Draft Culture Strategy

This draft plan has been put together from comments from artists, creative people and people who take part in culture.

The Scottish Government asked people about culture at events in 2017.

The events took place all over Scotland.

This happened because the Government promised to develop a Culture Plan for Scotland.

At the events people talked about what matters most to people about culture, what is working well, what needs to change and what needs to be done to support culture in Scotland.

Some of the things people talked about were:

- Artists, creativity, new ideas
- Promoting culture
- Understanding culture can help with education, and health and wellbeing
- Promoting diversity and inclusion
- Recognising how important young people are to culture
- Making connections with other countries
- Finding more money for culture
- Giving communities a say in how culture happens locally
- Talking about the impact and benefits of culture
- Joining up across Government.

Section 2. A Vision for Culture in Scotland

Culture is important and is open to everyone.

Culture is celebrated and is important to wellbeing.

The Scottish Government wants everyone to understand how important culture is.

Scotland is a place where lots of different communities, with their own cultures, can grow.

The Scottish Government wants Scotland to be a place where everyone has an opportunity to take part in culture, in different ways and in different places.

Artists and designers, people who make things and communities who take part in culture help to make Scotland an interesting place to live, work and visit.

People who want to be artists, or designers have the right to make a fair wage from their work. These careers should be open to everyone.

Culture and being creative can help us to learn about the past and remind us about history and heritage. It can help to shape the future.

There is no one story about Scotland's culture. It is made up of lots of different stories, told by different people.

What the Culture Plan will do - the Vision

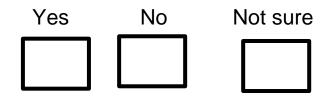

- Culture in Scotland is innovative and open to everyone in Scotland and around the world.
- Culture, from the past, and new ideas are celebrated. This is important for our future wellbeing.
- 3. Culture can be a way of bringing about change and can help everyone.

Section 3. Ambitions, aims and actions

This plan sets out ideas about how to support culture in Scotland.

The Scottish Government wants to help everyone with an interest in culture to get involved.

Changing through Culture

Ambition

Culture and creativity in Scotland helps everyone to have a better life.

Question 3.

Do you think the ambition in Changing through Culture is a good idea?

Tick one box.

Not sure

Question 4. Do you have any comments about this ambition? What do you like or not like? Write in here:

Aims

The Scottish Government wants to:

- think about culture when they make new rules and laws
- see culture as a way of helping people
- think about how culture can help people with their health and wellbeing, education and reduce inequality.

Actions

The Culture Plan will do this by

- Hiring someone to work as a Culture Leader at the Scottish Government. Their job will be to help everyone think about culture.
- Bringing together people, including people who work at universities and colleges to talk about how we can show that culture is a good thing and that the plan is helping to support culture for everyone.
- Getting different partners to all work together to promote culture in lots of different areas across local and national government.

Question 5.
Do you have any comments on these aims and actions? What do you like or not like?
Write in here:

Culture for Everyone

Ambition

Culture includes every community and is for everyone.

Question 6.

Do you think the ambition in Culture for Everyone is a good idea?

Tick one box.

Question 7.

Do you have any comments on the ambition? What do you like or not like?

Write in here:

The Scottish Government wants culture to be for everyone.

The Culture Plan will make sure:

- that all types of culture are included – even things that are new.
- new opportunities are created for people to take part in culture.
- that each community is recognised as having its own culture and sense of identity.

The Culture Plan will do this by:

- Promoting different types of culture.
- Creating partnerships between culture organisations, businesses and people who are working to make life better for people living in poor communities.
- Make sure people have a say in the type of culture that's available in their communities.

Question 8. Do you have any comments on these aims and actions? What do you like or not like? Write in here:

Growing Culture

Ambition

Aims

The Culture Plan will do this by:

- helping creative people and making sure they have the skills to help culture grow.
- showing that creative people are valued and trusted in what they do.
- helping people to be more open to different cultures.

Actions

The Culture Plan will do this by:

- Looking for money to support culture, through new budgets and new partnerships.
- Developing programmes to support skills and help artists and other creative people to make enough money.
- Creating opportunities for people from different backgrounds to get involved in culture.
- Developing a long-term plan for working with culture partners around the world.

Section 5. How will we know the plan is working?

It is important that we know if the plan is working.

The Scottish Government is planning to set up a group called the Measuring Change Group.

The group will be responsible for checking if the plan is working and will think how best to do this.

It will look at the information we have now about culture and decide if it needs any more.

This group will work with lots of different partners to check if the new national goal for culture is being achieved.

"We are creative and our vibrant and diverse cultures are expressed and enjoyed widely."
