Policy Aim

Section 89 of the Housing Scotland Act 2001 places a statutory duty on every local authority authorities to prepare and submit a Local Housing Strategy (LHS) to Scottish Ministers. This Equality Impact Assessment is undertaken on guidance (not policy) for local authorities to support and influence the development of a LHS.

The aim of the LHS guidance is to support local authorities in the development of a local housing strategy, for it to include clear outcomes and actions backed up by robust data, and for there to be links to Scottish Government national priorities, plans and targets as well as local priorities and plans.

Section 89 (11) of the Housing (Scotland) Act 2001 requires local authorities to keep a LHS under review. The LHS guidance sets out that local authorities should review progress annually

The Housing (Scotland) Act 2001 also requires that a LHS should be supported by an assessment of stock condition and the needs and demands or people in the area for housing accommodation including for people with special needs. The LHS guidance includes reference to the Housing Need and Demand Assessment requirements that form part of the Local Housing Strategy.

The LHS guidance supports local authorities in the development of a LHS that contains housing outcomes and actions that are linked to Scottish Government national priorities, plans and targets as well as local priorities that can contribute to the delivery of the following National Outcomes:

- We live in communities that are inclusive, empowered, resilient and safe:
- We tackle poverty by sharing opportunities, wealth and power more equally;
- We respect, protect and fulfil human rights and live free from discrimination;
- We grow up loved, safe and respected so that we realise our full potential
- We value, enjoy, protect and enhance our environment.
- We are healthy and active.

Who will it affect?

The LHS guidance supports local authorities with the statutory requirement to prepare a LHS in each local authority area and submit a copy to Scottish Ministers. A LHS will set out a local authority's agreed strategic vision and priorities for the future of housing and housing related services and therefore in this regard it affects everyone living or with the intention of living in Scotland.

What might prevent the desired outcomes being achieved?

The LHS guidance contains information on a range of statutory requirements and key Scottish Government targets to help support local authorities with the development of a LHS that addresses the needs of people in their local authority area. The LHS guidance states that each LHS submitted to Scottish Ministers should contain information on how all statutory requirements are being fulfilled and how local policies and actions align with Scottish Government national priorities, plans and targets.

To ensure that the desired outcomes are achieved, the Scottish Government has a review process in place to support continuous improvement. The Scottish Government and local authority peer support undertake the review process jointly at a time most beneficial to the local authority, which is usually the draft stage of a LHS.

Part of the review process includes the Scottish Government providing constructive feedback in writing to each local authority on the content of an LHS that highlights where the strengths are as well as areas for improvement for the local authority to consider. Each local authority is asked to respond to the areas for improvement by providing details of how these will be addressed. All finalised LHS are submitted to Scottish Ministers.

There is a requirement set out in the LHS guidance for local authorities to review progress annually.

Initial Assessment?

An Equality Impact Assessment is required on the LHS guidance.

Stage 1: Framing Summary of the initial findings of framing exercise which helped identify existing evidence and potential impacts:

The previous LHS guidance was published in August 2014 was subject to a full EQIA and this has been used as a starting point for developing the EQIA for the refreshed guidance.

This is refreshed guidance (and not new policy) and this EQIA takes on board findings from other policy impact assessments undertaken by Scottish Government officials on their respective policy areas and the findings from these assessments.

The LHS guidance includes a requirement for local authorities to prepare an EQIA at the same time as development of a LHS so that its findings can help inform the LHS. The LHS guidance encourages local authorities to undertake a Health Inequalities Impact Assessment, Child Rights and Wellbeing Impact Assessment, and Equalities and Human Rights Impact Assessment amongst others.

A review carried out on policy impact assessments for policy areas that are included in the LHS guidance suggested the following Negative Impacts:-

• The Fuel Poverty (Target, Definition and Strategy) (Scotland) Act 2019 - Gypsy/Travellers (not living in bricks/mortar homes) are unable to change energy suppliers and have to use prepayment meters. Some concerns on the proposed changes to older households where, if a person does not suffer from any long-term sickness or disability they will not be considered as requiring an enhanced heating regime until they reach 75 years of age to have potentially negative impacts on those between 60 – 75 years. Children under 5 years were identified as potentially experiencing negative impacts from the proposed new fuel poverty definition if there is no enhanced heating regime for households with children under the age of five.

Summary of how these Negative Impacts are addressed in the Refreshed LHS Guidance:

• The Fuel Poverty (Target, Definition and Strategy) (Scotland) Act 2019 –The LHS guidance asks each local authority to set out in its LHS by location, the scale and nature of fuel poverty in its area, and the type and number of households it considers to be the most vulnerable and how action to address the needs of these households is being prioritised. Future regulations to the Fuel Poverty (Target, Definition and Strategy) (Scotland) Act 2019 will set out the households to which the enhanced heating regime will apply. The LHS guidance requires local authorities to demonstrate how delivery of good quality housing, housing services and place-making in the local authority area supports and helps deliver national priorities, plans and targets, including 'Every Child, Every Chance – The Tackling Child Poverty Delivery Plan'.

Evidence Base

The LHS guidance makes reference to the Housing Need and Demand Assessment requirements, which form part of the Local Housing Strategy. The Housing Need and Demand Assessment (HNDA) undertaken by each local authority (or group of authorities in city regions) is used as the main evidence base for the LHS. Equality data is made available by the Centre for Housing Market Analysis (CHMA) to local authorities using an E*vidence Finder tool.* The HNDA guidance recognises that there are gaps in the available data and highlights instances where local knowledge can be more appropriate.

The HNDA guidance was updated in 2018 and as part of the 'robust and credible' appraisal local authorities are required to consult with external stakeholders and report on their findings. This requirement should strengthen the evidence base by obtaining information on housing need from those affected and their representatives.

Following a review of LHSs submitted to Scottish Ministers during the period of 2015 to 2018, the following areas have been addressed, as far as possible, in the refreshed guidance:

- A number of EQIAs suggested a tick box exercise as there did not appear to be any meaningful assessment with effective consultation; The LHS Guidance asks local authorities, in a LHS, to include evidence of early engagement with a wide range of people and communities of interest that has helped inform the LHS development process, including the use of co-production, as appropriate.
- EQIA findings are not always carried forward for consideration in the LHS and do not feature as actions within the LHS action plan; The LHS guidance encourages local authorities to demonstrate in a LHS how findings from an EQIA have translated into priorities and outcomes.

- The required Equality Statement is hidden in an annex and not given sufficient priority; The LHS guidance asks each local authority to include a statement that reflects the local authority's commitment to addressing inequalities in housing and that equality is central to all housing and housing services delivery.
- Equality in some instances is still considered separately, rather than being mainstreamed; As well as suggesting early engagement with a wide range of people and communities of interest that has helped inform the LHS development process, the LHS guidance encourages local authorities to demonstrate how findings from an EQIA have translated into priorities and outcomes in an LHS.
- The needs of Gypsy/Travellers are often not fully considered. The LHS guidance has been strengthened so that the needs of Gypsy/Travellers are identified, understood and addressed with a requirement for local authorities to evidence recent engagement with the Gypsy/Traveller community to better understand their needs.
- Some LHSs focus on older people and those with a physical disability, to the exclusion of other protected characteristics. The LHS guidance includes reference to the Equality Act 2010 and contains information on all protected characteristics. Local authorities are expected to demonstrate how findings from an EQIA have translated into priorities and outcomes in a LHS. A summary of the review process is set out in the LHS guidance and this ensures that there is robust feedback to local authorities.

The LHS guidance has been reviewed by internal stakeholders, including Scottish Government policy teams and the Equality Unit before being consulted on externally. External consultation has been held with local authority representative organisations (Associate of Local Authority Chief Housing Officers and The Convention of Scottish Local Authorities) and other stakeholders, including members of the Scottish Housing Network, NHS Health Scotland and the Equalities Human Rights Commission.

The LHS guidance asks each local authority to demonstrate in a LHS how effective engagement and consultation has been undertaken to help influence LHS priorities, actions and outcomes. It also asks local authorities to evidence who and how people, in particular those who are harder to reach, were given the opportunity to become involved. A draft LHS is subject to a formal consultation by each local authority.

The Community Empowerment (Scotland) Act 2015 introduced changes to community planning legislation and community planning now has a clear statutory purpose focused on improving outcomes. The LHS guidance encourages local authorities to work in partnership with other community planning partners and local communities on outcomes for which they are responsible.

Good practice is identified through the LHS review process to be shared with all local authorities. All LHS and related impact assessments are required to be made available on local authority websites.

Extent/Level of EQIA required

The purpose of the LHS Guidance is to support local authorities in the development of a LHS to address the housing and housing related service needs for all residents and potential residents across Scotland. It is therefore considered that a full EQIA on the LHS guidance is required.

Stage 2: Data and evidence gathering, involvement and consultation

Include here the results of your evidence gathering (including framing exercise), including qualitative and quantitative data and the source of that information, whether national statistics, surveys or consultations with relevant equality groups.

Stage 3: Assessing the impacts and identifying opportunities to promote equality

Having considered the data and evidence you have gathered, this section requires you to consider the potential impacts – negative and positive – that your policy might have on each of the protected characteristics. It is important to remember the duty is also a positive one – that we must explore whether the policy offers the opportunity to promote equality and/or foster good relations.

Do you think that the policy impacts on people because of their age?

Harassment and victimisation should be addressed through relevant local authority policies e.g. allocations policy. |
| Advancing equality of opportunity | Х | | | The LHS Guidance asks local authorities to consider and address in a LHS the current and future need for specialist housing provision, taking into account the growing number of people living longer and supporting the independent living agenda. The housing system should seek to provide a range of housing for people of all ages. |

Stage 4: Decision making and monitoring

Identifying and establishing any required mitigating action

Have positive or negative impacts been identified for any of the equality groups?

Negative impacts:

Fuel Poverty (Target, Definition and Strategy) (Scotland) Act 2019

- Gypsy/Travellers (not living in bricks/mortar homes) are unable to change energy suppliers and have to use prepayment meters.
- Some concerns on the proposed older households changes to where, if a person does not suffer from any long-term sickness or disability thev will not be considered as requiring an enhanced heating regime until they reach 75 years of age to have potentially negative impacts on those between 60 – 75 years.
- Children under the age of five were identified as potentially experiencing negative impacts from the proposed new fuel poverty definition if there is no enhanced heating regime for households with children under the age of five.

The LHS guidance asks each local authority to set out in its LHS by location, the scale and nature of fuel poverty in its area and the type and number of households it considers to be the most vulnerable and how action to address the needs of these households is being prioritised.

| Is the policy directly or | The LHS guidance includes reference to the Fuel Poverty (Target, Definition and Strategy) (Scotland) Act 2019 that introduces a new statutory target for reducing fuel poverty so that by 2040, as far as reasonably possible, no household, in any Local Authority area, in Scotland is in fuel poverty and, in any event, no more than 5% of households, in any Local Authority areas, in Scotland are in fuel poverty; no more than 1% of households in Scotland are in extreme fuel poverty; and the median fuel poverty gap of households in fuel poverty in Scotland is no more than £250 in 2015 prices before adding inflation. The LHS guidance requires local authorities to demonstrate in a LHS how delivery of good quality housing, housing services and place-making in the local authority area supports and helps deliver national priorities, plans and targets, including 'Every Child, Every Chance – The Tackling Child Poverty Delivery Plan'. |
| indirectly discriminatory under the Equality Act 2010 ² ? | NO |
| If the policy is indirectly discriminatory, how is it justified under the relevant legislation? | N/A |
| If not justified, what mitigating action will be undertaken? | N/A |

 $^{^{\}rm 2}$ See EQIA – Setting the Scene for further information on the legislation.

Describing how Equality Impact analysis has shaped the policy making process

The EQIA process has helped to highlight areas where the LHS guidance should be strengthened to help specific people and groups. The refreshed guidance should better support local authorities to develop robust Local Housing Strategies that address all equality issues.

Monitoring and Review

We have consulted with a wide range of internal and external stakeholders on the content of the refreshed LHS guidance and this would help raise any concerns related to the equality agenda.

There is a statutory requirement for Local Housing Strategies to be submitted to Scottish Ministers.
